JAMES FAHEY GOES HOME TO JASPER TOWN

Judge Crawford Grants Adjournment of Hearing For Week

James Fahey is going home to Jasper town.

Thanks to the kindness of His Honor Judge Crawford, the man who is wanted by the United States authorities on a charge of having escaped from Leavenworth penitentiary in the spring of 1935, will be able to go back home for a week.

Decision in this effect was arrived at in district court on Friday, when Judge Crawford granted an adjournment on the extradition proceedings until the next adjournment of six days until April 20.

When court opened on Friday morning James J. Fahey, 34, who has been retained by H. M. Collins, U. S. consul here, rose to his feet and told the court that the records in the case had not yet arrived from Washington, D. C., and would be compelled to ask for an adjournment until the next day.

"Then, if my friend (A. Francis) Dillinger is not ready, further adjournment will be necessary," explained Mr. Fahey.

His Honor wondered if there would be any objection to James going back to his home at Jasper.

MEGAN DENIES JOINING LABOR

LONDON, April 13.—Miss Megan Lloyd George, daughter of the former prime minister and Liberal member of the House of Commons for some years, has denied any intention of joining the Labor party.

Her reports were that she and her brother, Mr. George, were considering joining the Labor party.

"There was at least one rumor that I had become engaged to some young man," she said. "If these rumors had any foundation, I should be a bride would have nothing on me and the newspapers would have given me up as hopeless in that direction," she told a meeting at Holbeck.

"I am not in a position to join the Labor party. All I can say is that I am not aware of myself and that appears equally to my brother, because in this there is one united party in the House it is the Independent Liberals."

SHANGHAI, April 13.—Hope gave way to grave concern today for three fliers with their plane since Tuesday somewhere in the region of Hangchow Bay.

Experts had been confident the trio—James Fink, Miami, Fla.; Robert Gast, Louisville, Ky.; and Ivan Carlson, Dora, Texas—were being forced down by storms.

But with 15 airplanes, two tugboats and scores of fishing junks in the search, friends expressed fear the plane had crashed into the sea.

DEFEAT MOVE TO SET OVER
ACT CHANGES
Claim Amendments to the School Act Brought Down Too Late

Objections were raised by Hugh J. Macdonald, Liberal, in the House, during discussion of the bill to amend the School Act, which was under consideration in committee of the whole assembly, over the fact that the amendments were brought down too late in the session. He moved that the clause providing for a reference to a board of reference on matters affecting termination of teachers' contracts be struck out of the bill and the clause be amended.

Mr. Macdonald claimed that in previous years Hon. Perren Brien, minister of education, had brought this amendment before the assembly in the session and there was ample opportunity for discussion and for trustees to familiarize themselves with the provisions. This time the trustees would not have had time to familiarize themselves with the provisions. He was not blaming the teachers. They were to be congratulated on their interest in watching their own interests.

REES NO OBJECTION
Hon. J. H. Rees, Conservative, could see no objection to the bill and amendments. He was not new for a year. The principle was not new and therefore there was no need of delay.

Mr. M. Matheson, U.A.V., Vegreville, saw a danger in the Board saying a teacher had to go back to school after the contract had been terminated. He thought if teachers adopted the proper attitude the difficulties could be straightened out. C. Lionel Gibbs, Labor, Edmonton, contended the bill involved important considerations. The Board of reference would be set up in setting up a precedent and would have all parties to proceed carefully in negotiations with reference to the bill.

He thought the Board would be a great stabilizing influence for education.

Mr. Lang, Liberal, Medicine Hat, was in favor of putting forth an effort toward to have in the Act an agreement to bring teachers and trustees closer together.

BROWN UP EFFORTS
Dr. W. A. Atkinson, Conservative, Edmonton, thought the house should frown upon efforts to terminate teachers' contracts.

The house discussed considerable time in dealing with details of the bill.

Mr. Farthing, Conservative, Calgary, moved an amendment to the effect that all school teachers should have to be British subjects. Mr. Macdonald, Liberal, said the Minister, many teachers in the class of British subjects, but some of them were coming into the province. He thought the house would be pleased to have such restrictions on the teachers if Mr. Farthing's amendment was carried.

He suggested that if any change was desired in this bill, the amendment should be moved.

Mr. Farthing read the amendment and it was agreed that the amendment should not be passed to anyone who is a British subject.

He said that he had been informed of a high school teacher in Calgary who had been there for a number of years and who had not become a British subject and would not become naturalized because he was afraid he could not go back to the United States.

Versailles Treaty Placed Restrictions on Germany is Challenge as Berlin Defends Military Increases.

LONDON, April 13.—Germany was believed yesterday to be defying the terms of the Versailles treaty by increasing its military strength.

The Reich submitted a reply to the query of Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, regarding the increased appropriation.

It was believed that the foreign secretary by the British embassy in Berlin and Sir John Simon read it at once preparatory to making a report to the house of commons.

Although the contents of the German communication were not officially disclosed, it was reported that it was understood that the reply declared the Treaty of Versailles, ending the great war, placed no restrictions on the amount of armaments which Germany could create and argued the Reich is free to appropriate as much or as little as desired for military purposes.

The present unaided status of the disarmed countries, from which Germany resigned last year, also is mentioned in the reply which was said to state that Germany was not prepared to bring her own forces to a safe level.

Chamberlain Gives Outspoken Views

LONDON, April 13.—To preserve the peace and security of members of the League of Nations we must be ready to co-operate in defence of a member who has been wrongfully attacked, declared Sir Austen Chamberlain yesterday at a meeting in the Guildhall.

Lord Cecil of Chelwood, who presided, said the meeting had been convened "in defence of the League of Nations."

"I know that at present in certain quarters in this country," said Sir Austen, "there is something of a reaction against European entanglements. We are bidden to turn our backs on Europe and to be content with our role in the great Commonwealth of nations in the British Empire."

"Rather than stand aside until storm has burst upon us, we should be better serving British interests if we made our position clear beforehand and thus made our contribution to preventing an outbreak of war."

"No man or woman can say that we break out in Europe that we shall be able to remain indifferent or unaffected by the course of the struggle. How can we ignore other nations more immediately concerned in the struggle than ourselves? We are exposed to danger to abandon any course of self-interest which serves us unless we are prepared to co-operate."

"I hold that our safety is not in isolation but in the recognition that the aggression of the common enemy of mankind and in the establishment of a system which makes it certain that against the aggressor there will be mobilized the force which is irresistible and which must deny to the aggressor the benefits he hopes to derive from his aggression."

been on the point of suggesting this very thing himself.

Mr. Frawley said that he had no objections, if the conditions of the bail bond are complied with.

(Fahey is out on $10,000 bail, and must report once a day to Superintendent W. W. Hume, in charge of the C. I. B. of the R. C. M. P. here. His two bondsmen are Jasper citizens.)

REPORT AT JASPER

His Honor suggested that it would be less inconvenient to Fahey if he could be at home, and report to the C. I. B. detachment at Jasper daily.

Mr. Frawley and Mr. Duncan agreed that this suggestion would be suitable to both of them.

A question then arose about the technicalities of the bail bond, which were granted here by Magistrate George B. McLeod on the authority of his Honor.

His Honor examined the bond and pointed out that it was not granted on the condition that Fahey remain in Edmonton.

Mr. Frawley said that he was not sure he was able to get to Jasper, where a magistrate could be secured, before his term before him and agree to the conditions.

Count then adjourned.

James Fahey broke up Fahey's bail bond by the development were agreed to. Mrs. Fahey has been with her husband for a short time on a charge of being Frank's bondswoman.

His Honor gave seven him a wonderful surprise. He was separated from his three children. He now is able to see them again for a week, and possibly longer, but he will have to be some weeks yet before the appeal will be able to proceed with the extradition hearing.

THE whole question of car economy and reliability so definitely and conclusively as the Ford V-8.

It has been driven over 300,000 miles in grueling test runs in various parts of the country. These tests were over all kinds of hills and roads and the cars were driven continuously, day and night, twenty-four hours a day. Each car traveled almost as far every day as the average car goes in a month.

These tests have shown that it is the most economical Ford ever built.

Other low-price cars may talk about their economy and stamina. Salesmen may weave a pretty story about this and that. But the Ford V-8 dares to go out on the road and prove what it can do. Deeds are always stronger than talk and it's facts you want when you buy a motor car.

of defiance toward Japan, and war talk began to thicken the air. No doubt in some quarter or other the return of the fleet to the Atlantic will be regarded as a definite strain relations or hostile intent toward some other country. Any movement of any powerful fleet anywhere is sufficient to inspire the alarm.

Divested of imaginary significance, the fact is that the naval authorities have been themselves with conditions on the one coast or have sent back to refresh their knowledge of conditions on the other. The fleet has been shifted from one coast to another in the interests of general efficiency. But such prosaic facts do not crimp the style of the thrill-masters.

SHOULD HAVE A POLICY

The prolonged debate on the relief bill at Ottawa was quite needless, but will do no harm,
if it does not accomplish anything.

For the time the Government has no authority to send along cheques to the provinces or municipalities on relief account. It is a gesture of retroactive authority without any difficulty, and a trifling delay of a fortnight means nothing after the weary months of waiting. It has been waited for payments from Ottawa which could and should have been made promptly.

The measure has been held up because the Government insisted on inserting the "retroactive order and good government" clause, which in former years has empowered it to spend money any amount and for any purpose it chose by passing orders-in-council.

Quite aside from possible abuse of this "blanket" power, after three years' experience the Government should by this time know how it intends to spend relief money. If it doesn't know it is not a safe party to trust with any more "blank cheques."

"TELLING" THEM

The banking committee at Ottawa was well warned against the dangers of inflation, by an expert on the subject. The committee, however, one of our largest banks told the committee inflation, once started, is difficult to stop. Since the banking system is the only one that can inflate, and designed to facilitate inflation, it is a subject on which a banker is entitled to speak with authority.

But the point to be noted is that, in the banker's view, inflation is only dangerous when it is done by the government of a country.
When done by the private banks, it is "banking practice," it is done by all of them; always has been; and is the recognized prerogative of such institutions.

But when the suggestion is made that the state should undertake to do some inflating in the interests of the public, the banker is naturally different, from the banker's point of view.
There would be no money in this for the banker.
Further, it would be an invasion of what has come to be recognized as the established right whereby it would be dangerous.

The surprising thing is not that a banker should say this to the committee, but that he should be allowed to get away with it. The banks certainly control inflation. They have no difficulty on the subject. The question is they get panicky they apply the brakes. Not only do they stop inflation; they throw the country into deflation. Unless the have and money of the last four years.

What the banker was saying to the committee was this: "We have sense enough to keep the money supply from getting too large, but you haven't." Will the committee stand for that affront to its intelligence?

ALL AGAINST PRIVATE CONTROL

The legislature, with the exception of five Conservative members, gave support to Mr.
Hosown's resolution asking that the Central Bank be made a Government-owned institution, operated in the regulation of currency and credit on behalf of the public. And even the leading Conservative leader said it necessary to hedge on the issue. He suggested that the Minister of Finance acquire and hold half the stock of the bank, and that the Government appoint a majority of the directors.

The legislature is therefore unanimous on the point that the control and direction of the bank's policy should be in the hands of the Government, not with private shareholders.

That is the exact reverse of the principle upon which the bank has been created. There has been no suggestion that the Minister of Finance will acquire any of the stock. After the provisional board of directors have served their term, their successors will be chosen by the shareholders. And Mr. Rhodes has stated definitely that there is a difference of opinion between the bank and the Government the bank would have the final say.

The scheme brought down at Ottawa is that the shareholders shall run the bank as they please. The members of the legislature are at least agreed that the Government should hold the whip-hand over them.

Why, in these circumstances, Mr. Duggan should object to the Government acquiring all the stock is not apparent. It would be absurd and unfair to ask a number of private citizens to put up half the capital of the bank and let the Government run the bank for quite other purposes than those they would naturally have in mind. Those who own the bank will direct it policy, and control. Therefore the Government should own the bank outright.

The substance of the resolution approved by the majority in the legislature is that a Government-owned bank is preferable because it can be assured to be made to function in the public interest. The substance of Mr. Duggan's resolution is that a privately-owned bank would be trust to function in the public interest. They are amount to pretty much the same thing.
Except that Mr. Duggan's motion is really less complimentary to the scheme brought down
by Mr. Rhodes.

Poems That Live

LOVE IN DREAMS

Love hath his poppy-ureth,
Not Night alone,
The flower of man's life,
The flower of man's life,
The flower of man's life,

And fancy here,
A form, a face, no more;
Fairer than truth,
A dream from death's pale shore;
The soul of youth,
That kind of dream, that sleep,
All dreams above,
That still I pray to sleep—
Bring Love to me—

The Passing Show

By J. S. COOPER

Here's a token of unguessed fame. A common reader of this column is to know his I pronounce my name. He wants a public declaration on the subject. He says all the people he hears discussing it call the column
"Cooper's Column" instead of "The Passing Show." But the trouble is they don't know my name.
Cooper in the same way. In fact they differ argumentally about it. Some pronounce the first syllable in the same way as if referring to the famous author of the dairy business. Others, he says, pronounce it as "coo-" and the sound of the "ill" known dove. He wants to know which is correct.

It's a lovely position to be in when your friends are in dispute to be able to tell them that they're both right.

The antique or highbrow pronunciation, I am assured, is with the "coo." It's etymological the same as "coco." William Cowper, the poet, from whom the name is derived, rhymes his own name with "trooper" in his poem, "The Task."

On the other hand usage creates criteria.
I notice the later editions of the dictionaries now adopt the popular pronunciation of "cocoine" as alternative to its original pronunciation of co-oo. Usage is always being made over by usage. Taking the view that in western Canada in the twentieth century, co-oo has only one common and well-understood meaning, I pronounce my name as a dayman would. But you're both right, boys.

Before the novelization of the crazy economy to pay farmers not to grow wheat and cotton, or to kill their young pigs, spreads to newspapers and I subscribe to an offer to return from further writing until I should one suggestion that appears to be a valuable one. If the orthodox economists are right, it will mean the end of the only of Canada,
but in turn of all the nations.

Gold Areas of the Canadian North

By R. T. ELLIOT, K.C.

Commencing a comparatively few miles from the city of Vancouver, B.C., and extending as far north as men have travelled, Canada has a succession of gold-bearing areas. First province is the Bridge River area near Vancouver; now developing as one of the world's greatest gold producers; then running through the Upper Fraser river to the Cariboo area; then being found in the Omineca area and the Fort Granham area; and finally farther north in the Liard and Cassiar and Yukon areas; these Canadian gold-bearing areas offer one of the greatest of national opportunities awaiting development in the world today.

For over seventy years men knew of gold in the Bridge River area; lack of transportation facilities, and primitive methods of treating the rock, slowed development down for generations. Construction of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which the Canadian Government—intended as a traffic connection with the line then known as the Grand Trunk Pacific, and not as a railway to serve the Bridge River area—gave the Bridge River its first chance of major development; because the Pacific Great Eastern never reached its point of connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the Cariboo area, the main traffic as a mining railway in the Bridge River and the Cariboo area.

No government or company would have built a railway into the Bridge River area to aid mining. Only the altruistic attempt to connect with the railway to the north gave Bridge River a rail connection by accident. The Canadian Government, succeeding government of British Columbia deplores the millions tied up in the Pacific Great Eastern; while the cold fact is that the Bridge River area opened up on basis of major development by use of the rail facilities will soon be producing more per year than the total cost of the railway and will be paying to the government in royalties and freight a very substantial return on the railway investment. The Cariboo area is also undergoing major development.

The Omineca and the Fort Granham areas still lie sleeping owing to the lack of rail facilities. The completion at a cost of less than ten million dollars of the line now built 474 miles west from Edmonton by adding an additional 240 miles so as to bring the line via Fort St. James and Hudson Hope to Finlay Forks at the junction of the great rivers would give the necessary transport facilities to both the Omineca and the Fort Granham areas.

On the basis of what happened in the Bridge River area and the Cariboo; and on the basis of the known facts proven by prospecting in the Omineca area and the Fort Granham area, the construction of rail facilities to Finlay Forks will in each year result in railway earnings exceeding the entire cost of the rail connection; will give employment to many thousands of highly paid workers; and will afford a basic support for a major movement of population into the Canadian North.

Ottawa was ready to spend some two hundred million dollars as part of cost of completion of the St. Lawrence channel to the sea from the Great Lakes; but seems to be averse to even considering the spending of one-tenth of this amount in bringing into production the gold-bearing areas of the Omineca area and the Fort Granham area; both of great proven wealth and of much greater benefit to the home commerce of Canada than the St. Lawrence project ever could be.

One year would do it; and the effect of a big constructive work being carried on would stimulate every manufacturing community in Canada.

All these are facts; not theories; and it would only be reasonable to believe that any government that takes the action by parliament would be immediate and effective. Possibly before the close of the session, such action may be a reality.

SECRET REVERE AGENT NOT SHOWN IN REPORT

POWER PLANT EXTENSION IS DEBATED HERE

Proposed Extension Would Involve Capital Charges of $108,000 Annually

Capital charges of $108,000 a year for 20 years would be involved if the city were to undertake the proposed extension of $1,200,000 to the power plant, but W. J. Cunningham, chairman of the city committee, has told the civic power committee, Thursday, when it met to discuss Dominion's power situation, with reference to the Calgary Power Company agreement. Present charges on the plant are $65,000 a year.

On the motion of Ald. J. W. Findlay, the committee concluded the conference with the decision that the superintendent should draft a report dealing with the question of whether or not the city should take over power production by the Edmonton plant all the year round, and that this report should be submitted at a future meeting.

ESTIMATED EXPENDITURE

It is estimated an expenditure of $1,200,000 would be required if the local plant were to be made independent of any supply by the Calgary plant.

The question of bettering the city industry by producing all Edmonton's power needs, it was pointed out, was a very difficult one. The method was devised by the city engineer, it was pointed out, by Ald. Jas. East, that the position of district matters would be improved, and that the city would be able to handle the power situation more effectively. It was pointed out that the city would be able to handle the power situation more effectively.

PROVISION NECESSARY

The consensus of opinion was that some inter-connection arrangement should be continued with the Calgary company after the agreement had expired and in the event of a strike, the city would be dependent. It was explained that the city would be dependent on the Calgary Power Company for the supply of power for the city.

Mr. Cunningham presented a lengthy report on the power situation, pointing out the need for a new power plant. He pointed out that the city would be dependent on the Calgary Power Company for the supply of power for the city.

The capital investment in the transmission line, it was pointed out, was a very large sum. It was pointed out that the city would be dependent on the Calgary Power Company for the supply of power for the city.

DEBT ACT IS BACKED BY LEGISLATURE

C. A. Ronning, Camrose, Claims Insufficient Protection Provided

Claiming that the Debt Adjustment Act is insufficient protection for the home and therefore left the legislator in a difficult position, C. A. Ronning, Camrose, raised the question of the act in the legislature on Thursday. He took advantage of the occasion of discussion on a bill to amend the 1933 Act to deliver his opinion.

Other members of the house have not been satisfied with the manner in which the act has functioned, he said. "The declining factor in two cases of farmers in debt, it is too often concerned with whether the farmer can work himself out of the debt. Where it is felt he can get out, he is given the benefit of the doubt, but where it is felt he has no chance of working out, then the reverse holds good."

A different view had to be taken of the whole debt adjustment question, he said.

INDIVIDUALS SUFFERING

Mr. Ronning said that in explaining the situation to the legislature, he had pointed out that the act was not sufficient protection for the home and therefore left the legislator in a difficult position.

Next week the committee will meet on Thursday. Mr. Ronning said that he would be present and would be able to answer the questions of the committee.

To Dizzy Heights

Towering to dizzy heights, the $25,000,000 bridge across the Golden Gate at San Francisco rises unit by unit, to the staircase tone of riveting machines, operated by workmen who sit in the cages shown suspended along the sides of the massive girder. Other workers work inside the cellular sections of the giant span and its abutments.

NO CHANGE IN RELIEF FOOD ALLOWANCES

No Alteration Pending Full Information on Proposed Relief Plan

Pending receipt from the Dominion government of full and complete information on the proposed relief program for the coming season, there will be no alteration in the food allowances under the relief schedule, Premier J. E. Brownlie informed the legislature on Thursday during discussion of the bill dealing with responsibility of municipalities for those on relief. Even after the Dominion government is advised of the full details of the relief program, there will be no change in the food allowances under the relief schedule, he said.

The main feature of the bill provides for the relief of the food allowances under the relief schedule, he said.

CASH PAYMENTS

The question of cash payments for relief will be followed to a conclusion in the near future, the Premier informed C. Lionel Gibbs, Liberal, Edmonton.

As soon as the government was relieved of its seasonal responsibilities, concentrated attention would be devoted to the unemployment problem, he said.

Immediately after the session, the Premier expected to go to Regina to meet with the minister of agriculture and health, who would be going east as a western representative.

Hitler's "Jew Baiting" Not New, Speaker Tells

PROVOST, April 13.—The "Jew" was filed Monday evening to hear Mrs. J. Bloor of Vancouver tell the story of "Hitler and the Jews" and the speaker was listened to with keen interest. The story as carried on a strictly dramatic basis, but was rather a well-considered plea for the Jews, and was listened to by all the various families of men and women who had gathered on by the Hitlerites.

Spring Cleaning Loses Its Terror With Paint Brush

Manager

J. C. PENDRAY

"The laborious process of spring house cleaning has lost much of its importance in recent years," says J. C. Pendray, manager of the British America Paint Co., Ltd. "The woman of today has found a more satisfactory method of renewing the beauty of her home and its furnishings. . . . She wields a paint brush instead of a scrub brush." Improved methods of paint manufacture have been largely responsible for this changing condition. Interior finishes are so easy to apply and dry so quickly. Also there is a minimum of upset to the home when spring painting is being done and the result is infinitely more pleasing. All unsightly marks and blemishes are removed. Entire color schemes can be changed. Freshness and lustre of the freshly painted surface lasts for months practically without further attention.

The manufacturers of Satin-Glo have long recognized this tendency of the modern woman to do much of her own interior decorating and they provide three Satin-Glo finishes with which every home-beautifying project can be carried out. Furthermore, for one week each spring they offer these Satin-Glo products at substantially reduced prices. April 14 to 21 is Satin-Glo Sale Week, and with the double incentive to beautify the home and economize on cash outlay, women everywhere are making it a point to visit stores where Satin-Glo is on sale. The three varieties of Satin-Glo are varnish, high-gloss enamel in bright, attractive colors and a semi-gloss finish in pastel tints for wall decoration.

ROME CONFERENCE READY TO REVEAL REPORT OF BOARD

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF VIVIAN DAVIS

Inquest Concluded, But Police Investigation to be Continued

The case of Vivian Davis, 19-year-old daughter of Dr. J. H. Davis, who died in the Royal Alexandra hospital the night of April 3 last, remained as a challenging enigma to the coroner and the Edmonton police department investigating the mystery, at the close of the coroner's inquest Thursday in the latter's McGilvary funeral hall. Medical evidence adduced at the medical inquest eliminated the possibility of strychnine poisoning and it took the jury less than seven minutes to bring in an open verdict—that Vivian Davis came to her death as a result of shock following an abortion.

Several questions with an important bearing on the case raised by Chief Provincial Coroner Dr. A. Braithwaite himself, remained unanswered and Dr. J. H. Davis, 62, of 1401 St. James street, was assigned the case, it was said, to the coroner's jury in the next few days.

Dr. Morton R. Hall, pathologist at the Royal Alexandra hospital, called to discuss the results of his examination of the body, to the adjournment eight days ago. "I found nothing new," he said. "There were no traces of poison."

"Expert medical witnesses Dr. Morton Hall and Dr. J. H. Davis, both agreed with Coroner Braithwaite that it was impossible for the young girl to have operated on herself."

A startling disclosure that snuffed the hope of a trial to attention came when a witness testified that she saw the body about 11 p.m. on the night of April 3. That was when she saw the body on the bed.

The girl's aunt, Mrs. Doris E. Davis, 40, of 1111 St. James street, in the English block, testified that about 11 p.m. and found Vivian unconscious and in a state of collapse. A few moments later she saw the body on the bed.

"I didn't want her," swore Mrs. Davis, "but other people must have done it."

Mrs. Mary Detmold, landlady of the house at 1120 p.m. on the night of April 3, testified that she saw the body on the bed.

Threatened suicide. A friend who lived in the room and saw the girl on the bed, in violent convulsions and unconscious.

Delegates Optimistic That Method to be Recommended Will Meet Approval of All Nations

ROME, April 12—A practicable method of establishing world minimum export prices for wheat, thus meeting new vigor into the depressed world wheat situation, will be laid before the world wheat conference today by an expert subcommittee.

Although details of the report were not divulged, the experts said they were optimistic it would be supported by the delegates.

The attitude of the Argentine, one, however, remained doubtful. The lack of the subcommittee was not to fix a minimum price, but to set up a flexible scheme for maintaining any price, that would be agreed on by the full conference and it is up to the latter to figure out a price and to put it into effect.

GOVERNMENT REPRESSION

It is known that part of the plan is a result of the government's repression to refrain from exportation of wheat. It is believed that the government is trying to force the export of wheat to the United States.

CONCESSION FOR ARGENTINE

There was much discussion about the Argentine concession. It is believed that the government is trying to force the export of wheat to the United States.

FRENCH TRADE PLAN

The French plan was that nations should be allowed to import wheat from the United States. It is believed that the government is trying to force the export of wheat to the United States.

GIRL TRAPPER DEATH BEING INVESTIGATED

Analyst Works While Inquest in North is Delayed

REGINA, April 12—The tragic death of 25-year-old Jean Dykeman, found frozen to death in a snowbank after a blizzard swept the Lost Lake district of Saskatchewan, is still being probed.

The provincial analyst is still endeavoring to determine if some other cause than cold might have caused the death of the former Yorkton school teacher, and pending these findings, the inquest at Goodwood, 100 miles north of Regina, is still being probed.

The young woman went into the northern district to trap with her brother, Albert, in October, 1933. On March 19, Miss Dykeman, an experienced trapper, left the cabin and set out over trapline set through the swampy, heavily wooded Lost Lake area. She never returned and her brother and friends found her frozen to death in a snowbank. Apparently overcome by exhaustion, she had set down to rest and never moved again.
